CHRISTADORO'S HAIR-DYE

CONTRAST THE TINTS

Contrast the hair by Christadoro's matchless revitalising Hair-Dyc, and those produced by application of the burning finits ordinarily sold as Hair-Dyes. You see at one that the color is natural in one case, and nunstaril in the other; and the simple reason is, that Christadoro's is the own preparation which, by the exact chemical combination, operates on natural and immutable principles. Made, sold, and applied (in temprivate rooms) at Ohristadoro's. Saior House, Broadway, New York. Also, for sale by the principal Draggigts and Partumers throughout the equatry.

THURSDAY, - DECEMBER 4, 1956.

The organ of all Know-Nothingdom mad another exposition of itself yesterday morning, which is in keeping with its course for many months past. The editor can't write an article of a coinmn without coming out self-stultified by the time he gets through. He informed his readers yesterday morning, that an equilibrium of power between the North and South "has long been a favorite hobby with a portion of the Demceratic party." He then proceeds to denounce the idea of such an equilibrium. He says: "Un- the State coat of arms worn upon the buttons. able to appreciate great principles by which all the States may be governed alike with equal instice and protection to all their rights, these short-sighted politicians can perceive no remedy for the ceaseless agitation of the slavery ques tion, and no protection to the people of the South in the undisturbed enjoyment of their peculiar institution, except an equilibrium of numerical force, an equality of strength in the national legislature." So then the notion of an equilibrium is very decidedly condemned. It is but an expedient, and a postilent one, in the absence of great principles. But how long does the editor stick to the position ha assumes ? No longer than he can face about and accuse the Democracy of destroying this equilibrium. He says the Democratic party have established measures and principles in the Kansas-Nebraska act that will render an equilibrium impossible. "It is now," save he, "painfully evident that the effect of the this last Democratic hobby, will be to effectually exclude slavery from all the territories which have been or may hereafter be acquired by the all opportunity for the extension of its peculiar institution."

Considering the antecedents of the editor, the pain he feels at this announcement can be fully appreciated. Slavery was prohibited in all the wast region embraced in these territories by an act of Congress, and the editor and his party have been railing at its repeal for the past year or two. Slavery was forever excluded, and if it should not be established in any of the territories in the end, their condition will not be altered. As the territories now stand, slavery will be introduced into them if the inhabitants of the territory desire it; whereas if the whole territory had remained as he desired, the people of the territory would have had no choice in the matter. It is easily seen, then, how painful the editor's apprehensions are that slavery cannot be extended. But the point to be observed is, that the editor. before the close of the article, becomes deeply impressed with the necessity of an equilibrium between the North and South, and deplores it as than all beside to strengthen the North and augment its political power. They have placed it beyoud the power of the South to obtain equal power with the North in our national legislature, and now we find them hypocritically whining over the downfall of the South, and demanding a restoration of the power which they themselves have taken from her. It is time that the people of tha country should look behind the veil of the mere name of Democracy and see how nearly the conntry has been brought to the verge of rnln."

He denoances the Demogratic party for supporting measures to strengthen the North thus: The Democracy is now clamorous for an equilibrium of power in the national legislature between the slave-holding and Freesoil States. It demands what its own short-sighted policy has already destroyed. The possibility of the restoration of this equilibrium is daily sibility of the restoration of this equilibrium is daily and hourly decreasing under the rninous polley of the Democratic party. This is the effect not only of its nutrification and squatter sovereignty doctrines, but also of its careful fostering of the foreign element in our country. At the same time that the Southern Democracy cry out agains: the rapid increase of the power of the North, they are violeutly opposing the only policy which can offer any check to this advance, and afford the South an equal chance with the North in the acquisition of political power.

So the Democracy ought to discourage the immigration of foreigners in order to keep down the political power of the North. So vastly important has the equilibrium of the two sections of the Union become between the beginning, and the middle, and the end of an article, not quite a column long ! Here is sectionalism with a vengeance. We are to adopt measures to prevent the growth and prosperity of the North ; or abandon the liberal policy of our fathers for this purpose; and then, we presume, we are to ask the North very modestly not to insist on measures against us.

The editor at first sneers at the idea of an equilibrium, which he says a portlon of the Democrats insist upon; and then accuses the Democratic party of the great crime of bringing the country to the verge of rnin, by a policy that has destroyed this equilibrium. With intelligent readers the former part of the article is a sufficient reply to the latter. The equilibrium of political power between the two sections of the Union is ne bad idea, if it were possible; for the best security against power is power; but it is not possible, nor is it indispensable. We shall certainly not refuse to snetain constitutional and just measures because they will add to the prosperity of the North; the Democracy will do just the contrary. We shall than have a right to expect and demand justice from the North. And that is not all, we expect to find, both now and in all time to come, mer enough North to sustain any just and constitu tional measures that we may require.

Our equality of numbers with the North in the lower House of Congress has long since disappeared; and our equality in the Senate was lost upon the admission of California into the Union. This latter measure was one of the compromised of 1850, for which the editor went off into fits of admiration after they were passed; and when party interests required it. We know of no constitutional way to keep up an equality of numbers between the free and slave States, or between the populations of the two sections of the Union : but there is a way to keep up an equality of interests and equality of rights, and that the Democracy of both sections of the Union are determined to maintain. When a territory comes in order with her sonstitution, she will be admitted into the Union without inquiring whether she sanctions slavery or not; or whether there be mora free than slave States. The Democracy don't intend to allow Congress to discriminate on this subject for the advantage of one section of the Union or the other.

As to our naturalization laws they were framed as they now exist by the wise men of the Revolution. We could easily show that we owe a large preportion of our wealth, power, and prosperity to the policy they adopted. The Democracy de cline to change these laws at the behests of faction, to retard the grewth and prosperity of one section of the Union. The only evil of adopted citizens voting in this country is that they don't vote for a party of political demagogues, who are inspired with the idea of their divine right to office. This is a vast evil with these demagogues; but the Democracy can't appreciate it. They consider it rather a blessing to the country. It Jeffersonville, and New Albany, promptly, by faithpreves, instead of foreigners not knowing how to ful carriers. Every Democrat should subscribe vote, that they know much better than the domagogues who want their votes.

We hope the Fillmore men of the free Biates will note the reason given by the organ of Louisville, for its policy respecting the naturalisation The purpose is to arrest the progress of the free States in power and prosperity. Shallow and narrow-minded the motive is; but it is

One of the most brutal deeds ever heard of was perpetrated hy a negro shoemaker in Jesus Maria street, Havana, upon the person of a young mulat-to, his apprentice. The boy was talking to another boy, and his brute of a master seized a hot bolled egg just off the fire and thrust it into the or iad's mouth, holding his hand over the outh until the boy was suffocated and died. Thomas Jefferson wrote of Andrew Jackson "He is a clear-headed, strong-minded man, and has more of the old Roman in him than any man llving."

Science would lack the grand charm that sheds halo over its labors, if the gentler sex were not made participants of the henefits it imparts. To that sex the medical discoveries of the distinguished philanthropist, Professor Holloway, have been singularly beneficial. For the complaints peculiar to the female organisation, and which are borne with a fortitude rarely exhibited hy man, Holloway's Pills have been for twenty years administered with wonderful snocess. In those crises of woman's life, the dawn of womanhood and the commencement of old age, as well as in the innumerable cases requiring medical assistance which occur hetween those two important epochs the mild and restorative action of this remedy is attested by the strongest vonchers. Nor is the Ointment less highly appreciated as a remedy for the eruptions and other external dis-figurements which sometimes cloud the beauty of

It is a terrible thing to see a beloved wife or danghter languishing under the attacks of disease the lustre fading from her eyes, the rose from her sheek, and premature decrepitude prostrating he energies in the moraing or the prime of life. Per-haps the innate sensitiveness and delicacy of her nature forbid her to disclose the cause of the difficulty, or if she seeks medical aid she find little or no relief from stereotyped proscriptions. Furnished with Holloway's remedies she needs no professional adviser. The directions acquaint er with the manner of their use. In the onie seclusion of her ewn chamber she can be physi-oian to herself, and will soon learn, as millions have already learned, that she has found the true elizer vite. As the glow of her health returns to her dimmed eyes, elacticity to her step, and cheer fulness to her heart, she will realize in her own feelings all that has been published of the ex perience of others, who suffered as she has suffered and have been restored by the same means. The subject is one on which it is difficult to be explicit, without trenching upon what are called the proprieties of life; but a sense of duty ha impelled us to glance at one of the most valuable peculiarities of Holloway's remedies, and we fee assured that our motives will be appreciated.

[From the N. Y. Datly News, Nov. 99.1 Letter from the Hon. Wm. Preston, of Kentucky.

The following admirable letter was received too iste to be read at the grand Jubiles of the Denecracy at Tammany Hall on Wednesday evening the committee have consequently handed it to me for publication. It will be read with interest as coming from one of Kentucky's noblest sons, and a warm and devoted friend of the galiant and cetimable Breckinridge, the Vice President elect of the United States:

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 24, 1856. GENTLEMEN: I had the honor to receive, a few days since, through you, an invitation to address the Democracy of New York, at Tammany Hall, upon Wednesday next, in celebrating the triumph achieved in the election of James Buchanan and achieved in the election of James Buchanan and John C. Breckinridge as President and Vice President of the United States. I regret that my private affairs will preclude me from having the pleasure of meeting the peo-ple of New York, who are about to celebrate that event.

In the recent campaign the Democratic party have gained a memorable viotory. The battle was brilliantly fought and nobly won. The triumph has not been dimmed by weak concessions, nor tarnished by dishonorable coalitions. We have asserted and maintained inviolate the great indicate appearable on party and our repubprinciples upon which our party and our republic repose. We have spurned the new scelal theories which have invaded us from the schools of deistical philosophy in Europe now among us, until the public opinion of America hegins to be contaminated, as that of the Old World has been polluted by them. We have crushed their kindred heresies, which in this country, under the pretext of philanthrophy, have sown discord mong our people, and, imperiled the Republic and we have gloriously sustained the tolerant policy of the fathers of the country in the past, as a guarantee for its happiness and security in the future. In this great crisis, the Democracy have not only remembered their ancient renown; but have emblazoned with new glories their seven-fold shield. Again under its broad disk has the stranger found hospitality and freedom Under its mighty folds the rights of conscience Under its miguty force on rights of Constitute have been sheltored against the fury of party, and before its dazzling brightness the fell spirits of fanaticism and oivil discord have shrnnk hack in wild disordor and diemay.

The beneficial effects of this victory are already manifest. The dangerous excitement of the last sew months has began to subside; the spirit of sectional recrimination has abated; in-dastry is preparing for new enterprises; a more fraternal feeling is apparent; tranquility and confidence are restored, and the nation in the next four years will make gigantic rides in wealth and power; while the Domocracy, with fearless energy, will adopt such measures as will remove forever the vexed questions which have activated prever the vexed questions which have agitated ectional passions, and threatened the perpetnity

I feel an ahiding confidence that the new admin istration will be so framed as to fulfill the hopes of the Democracy, and the expectations of the ountry. I feel assured that it will adhere with unshaken fledelity to the bold and generous poli-ey of the party; that it will realize, justly and exactly, the equal rights of the States; that I will abstain from all interference in their donestio affairs, and refuse to exercise donbtfu powers of legislation over the Territories; and that it will cling, in thought and deed, in sunhine and in storm, to the great covenant of the confederacy.

A firm conviction of the results has caused former differences to be forgotton, and thousands of old Whigs to throng to the standard of the De-mocracy. I feel an honest pride, as I see their numbers and hail their advent. Never was the attitude of the Democracy grander or more im-posing than at this honr. It is strong in the simplicity of its policy, and splendid in its energy. From the depths of my hear? I trust that it will still continue true to its principles; that it will still give us tranquility at home, and respect abroad; that it will still shelter the defenseless allen, and protect the sacred rights of religious freedom; and, in conclusion, that it will still ad-vance the Republic amid the blessings of mankind, to a pitch of grandeur, as yet unknown among the nations. I have the honor to remain, mong the nations. I have the honor to remain, four obedient servant. W. PRESTON. Hon. Joeiah Sutherland, John Creighton, Esq.,

D—, who lives down the Shellroad, and his capacity for the enjoyment of a joke, evon though it be at a friend's expense. A friend of the Captain's, a great lover of horse flesh—on the hoof, of course—from Baffalo, being on a visit to our city, had some negotiations in that article with the Uaptain, and was riding down the Shellroad, in his wagon, talking it over with him. It was just after supset, and the shades of evening were rapidly falling. It was after Inner, besides.

Looming in the distance, then approaching, then passing by, appeared a string of three mules, jog-ging home to their stable, near the hasin, after having been down to the lake end of the road,

"The tandem team that, Captain!" exclaimed onr Baffalo friend, "and, by Jore, there comes another!" as a second string came np. "Who upon earth have you got down here, who drives such teams as them? I yow to gracious, if there ain's another—and seems to me there's another jest be-Don't mean to teil me everybody drives andem on this Shellroad of yourel' "Pretty much," says Capt. D-, "but no one nan quite so many as the Major, who owns all them yon've been seeing"

"Don't mean to tell me that one man sports all these tandems!" exclaimed the astonished Buffaonian, who seemed to think, with the startled Mac oeth, that the "line would stretch out to the crack of doom." "Well," he added, after a moment's effection, "he must be a pretty forchanded chap, anyhow!"

"Yes," said the Captaln musingly, "pretty well critturs, and some negroes, and—well, I should say he was tolorably well off, the Majorl" "So he ought to be," ejacalated the stranger, as they arrived at the lake-end of the road—"so he ought to be, to keep agoing such an allfired lot of Capt. D- chnekled, and so (we guess) will the Major, when he reads of his wonderful equestrian doings on the Shellroad.

CHNSUS OF THE CITY,

in conformity to a provision of the City Charter which, renders it obligatory upon the sity authorities to enumerate the inhabitants of Louiswille in 1857. We are pleased to see that President Monsarrat, of the Common Council, makes a proposition which, if indorsed by the General Connoil and approved by the Mayor, will redound greatly to the social and commercial advantages of the city. The proposition referred to contemplates the collection of a variety of statistics as to commerce, manufactures, and resources, which will be a source of gratification to our own citisens, and matters of deep interest ta persons abroad. If we are not mistaken, a careful analysis of the extent of our local productions and trade, and the many natural and artificial advantages which our locality possesses, will excite the wonder and admiration of enterprising spirits at a distance, who have had no reliable means of estimating our advantages; while such of us as have interests here, will have a better opinion of our own possessions. meet his hearty co-operation. While upon mut is not generally understood that such coffee house keepers as have tavern license have an undeniable right to sell liquor on the Sabbath day. The highest judicial tribunals have decided that the city ordinance which deprives tavernreepers of this privilege, is in conflict with the law of the Commonwealth, and is, therefore, inoperative. We have no desire to promote the traffic in ardent spirits upon the Sabbath, or any other day; but we record the fast as a matter of news to such tavern-koepers as are not aware of the latent liberty which they have the means of enjoying. It is highly eroditable te a large number of our principal tavern-keepers, that, notwithstanding they have been long awars of the existence of a legal privilege to keep open their bars and saloons upon the Sabbath, with considerations of respect for popular opinion, and in ascordance with their own tastes, they have sacrificed pecunlary gains to the public will, and to their own better judgment. The Firemen's Fair. Those of our citizens who have not visited the Fair for the benefit of the superannated firemen and the indigent families of deceased firemen, can have no conception of the attractions and delights nightly offered at Odd-Fellows' Hall. The line of tables which greets the eye upon the right of the hall as the visiter enters, prepared respectively by the Hook and Ladder, Kentneks, Relief. and Lafayette companies, are most dazzling. The gallery of pictures in Brannan's Art Union Drawing, are an exhibition of themselves. Such citisens as fail to attend these pleasing entertainments, deprive themselves of a high enjoyment, and are neglecting to encourage a worthy Oause.

Mr. Hale stracked the position of the President, de-nying altogether the charge which he imputed to a majority of the people of eleven States, of a want of fidelity to constitutional obligations and love of the Union. It was untrue that they sought to usurp the power of the government. Mr. Brown thanked the President for his fidelity in sounding a werning against sectional strife, and took occasion to charge the supporters of Frement with the intention of abolishing slevery everywhere, and in this connection alluded to the views of Messrs. Seward and Wilson.

This called up Mr. Seward, who remarked that what he had said on thet subject was not in a corner, and referred Mr. Brown for further information to Bedfields publication of his speech. Mr. Wilson stated that he had never entertained no expressed the opinion that Congress had power to abolish slavery within the States, nor had he uttered assume or exercise such power. Mr. Mason maintained that the constent agitation of slavery had brought the people of the South to the con viction that the preservation of that institution resided with themselves alone, and that if the Fremont party had been able to execute what they evowed, it would have led to a dissolution of the Union, immediate and Mr. Trumbnil denied that the Republicans had any intention to interfere with slavery in the States. They had avowed that the rights of the States, the union of the States, end the constitution of the country, must be preserved. He spiritedly controverted the President's remark that the Missonri compromise was absent intely unconstitutional, saying there was no founda Adjourned.

These striking and remarkable novels have long been standards in English literature, and, it is believed, will not fail to be appreciated by American readers. They were favorites of Lord Syron, who wrote: "Nothing of Scott's is finer than "The German," Tries, admired it when a bry, and have continued to like what I did then." The Spectator said: "There is scarcely any educated person of this century who has not, at some time or other, drawn a sincere pleasure from these pages." The Edinburgh Fost said: "Faw readers of entertaining literature can be ignorant of these popular productions." And also, The pure morality which reign all fictions—will ender them the most eligible reading for young persons. They ought to be in every family library."

of the House of Representatives: The Constitution requires that the President shall, from time to time, not only recommend to the consideration of Congress such measures as he may judge necessary and expedient, but also that he shall give information to them of the tate of the Union. To do this fully involves ex-tended to the Union of the control of the control of the country dements or forms, which control antry, domestic or foreign, which essential ly concern the general welfare. While performing his constitutional duty in this respect, the President does not speak merely to express pereonal convictions, but as the executive minister of the government, enabled by his position, and called npon by his official obligations, to scan with an impartial eye the interests of the whole, and of every part of the United States.

Of the condition of the domestic interests of the Union, its agriculture, min's, manufactures, uavi-gation, and commerce, it is necessary only to say that the internal prosperity of the country, its continuous and steady advancement in wealth and population, and in private as well as public well-being, attest the wisdom of our institutions, and the predominant spirit of intelligence and pa-triotism, which, notwithstanding occasional irregwharities of opinion or acticu resulting from pop-ular freedom, has distinguished and characterised the people of America.

In the brief interval between the termination

In the brief interval between the termination of the last and the commencement of the present session of Congress, the public mind has been occupied with the care of selecting, for another constitutional term, the President and Vice Presiden ident of the United States.

The determination of the persons, who are of right, or contingently, to preside over the administration of the government, is, under our system, commit ted to the States and the people. We appeal to them, by their voice pronounced in the forms of law, to call whomseever they will to the high post of Chief Magistrate.

And thus it is, that, as the Senators represent the respective States of the Union, and the members of the House of Representatives the several constituencies of each State, so the President rem resents the aggregate population of the United States. Their election of him is the explicit and solemn act of the whole sovereign authority of Linion.

ossible to misapprehend the great principles, which, by their recent political a tion, the people of the United States have sanctioned and

They have asserted the constitutional equality of each and all of the States of the Union as States: they have affirmed the constitutions equality of each and all of the cicions of the United States as citions, whatever their religion, wherever their birth or residence; they have mainsined the inviolability of the constitutional rights f the different sections of the Union; and they have proclaimed their devoted and unalterable attachment to the Union and to the constitution. as objects of interest superior to all subjects of local or sectional controversy, as the safeguard of the rights of all, as the spirit and the essence of the liberty, peace, and greatness of the Kepublic. In doing this, they have, at the same time, em-phatically candemned the idea of organizing in eso United States mere geographical purties; of mare halling in hostile array toward each other the differe of parts of the country, North or South, chemes of this nature, fraught with incalcu-

Schemes c. this nature, trangit with incateur-lable mischiof, and which the considerate same of the people has 'ejected, could have had constr-nance in up part of the country, had they not been disguised by suggestions plausible in ap-pearance, acting upon an excited state of the pub-lic mind, induced by causes temporary in their lic mind, induced by causes temporary in their character, and it is to be hoped transient in their Perfect liberty of association for political objects, and the widest scope of discussion, are the received and ordinary conditions of government in our country. Our institutions, framed in the spirit of confidence in the intelligence and integrit ity of the people, do not forbid citizens either in dividually or associated together, to attack hy writing, speech, or any other methods short of physical force, the Constitution and the very existence of the Union. Under the shelter of this great liberty, and protected by the laws and usages of the government they assail, associations have been tormed, in some of the States, of individuals, who, pretending to seek only to prevent the spread of the institution of slavery into the present and future incheste States of the Union, are really influend with desire to change the domestic institutions of existing States.

L'o accompsi a their objects, they dedicate thomselves to the edious tank of depreciating the gov rement ergenization which stands in their way, and of crimmoistray, with indiscrimicate invec-tive, not only the citizens of particular States with whose laws they find fault, but all others of their fellow-citizens throughout the country, who do not participate with those in their assaults upon the Constitution, framed and adopted by

by reaction; and the attacks upon the Constitution at this point did but serve to raise up new parriers for its defense and security. The third stage of this unbappy sectional controversy was in connection with the organization of territorial governments, and the admission of new States into the Union. When it was pro-posed to admit the State of Maine, by separation of territory from that of Massachusetts, and the State of Missouri, formed of a portion of the territory ceded by France to the United States, representatives in Congress objected to the adulssion of the latter, unless with conditions suited to porticular views of public policy. The imposition of such a condition was successfully resisted. But, at the same period, the question was presented of imposing restrictions upon the residue of the territory ceded by France. That question was, for the time, disposed of by the doption of a geographical line of limitation.

In this connection it should not be forgotten that France, of her own accord, resolved, for considerations of the most far-sighted sagacity, to cede Louisiana to the United States, and that accession was accepted by the United States. The latter expressly engaged that "the inhabitants of he ceded territory shall be incorporated in the nion of the United States, and admitted as soon as possible, according to the principles of the Federal Constitution, to the enjoyment of all the rights, advantages, and immunities of citizens of the United States; and in the mean time they shall be maintained and protected in the free enjoyment of their liberty, property, and the re-ligion which they profess"—that is to say, while t remains in a territorial condition, its ants are maintained and protected in the free en-oyment of their liberty and property, with a light then to pass into the condition of States on footing of perfect equality with the original

The enactment, which established the restrict ive geographical line, was acquiesced in rather than approved by the States of the Union. It steed on the statute book, however, for a number of years; and the people of the respective States acquiesced in the re-ensemble of the principle as applied to the State of Texas; and it was proosed to acquiesce in its further application to the erritory acquired by the United States from Mexico. But this proposition was successfully resisted by the representatives from the North-ern States, who, regardless of the statute line, instated upon applying restriction to the new territo-ry generally, whether lying north or south of it, thereby repealing it as a legislative compromise, and, on the part of the North, persistently violating the compact, if compact there was.

Thereupon this enactment ceased to have binding virtue in any sonse, whether as respects the forth or the South; and so in effect it was treated on the occasion of the admission of the State of California, and the organization of the territories of New Mexico, Utah, and Washington.

Such was the state of this question, when the time arrived for the organization of the Territo-ries of Kansas and Nebraska. In the progress of enstitutional inquiry and reflection, it had now at length come to be seen clearly that Congress does not possess constitutional power to impose restrictions of this character upon any present ctiature State of the Union. In a long series of lecisions, on the fullest argument, and after the most deliberate consideration, the Supreme Court filthe United States had anally determined this point, la every form under which the question could arlee, whether as affecting public or private rights—in question of the public domain, of religion, of navigation, and of zervitude.

The several States of the Union are, by force of the Constitution, co-equal in domestic legis: lative power. Congress cannot change a law of domestic relations in Maine, no more than it can n the State of Missouri. Any statute which roposes to do this is a mere nullity, it takes away o right, it confers none. If it remains on the tatute book unrepealed, it remains there only a monument of error, and a beacon of warning the legislator and the statesman. To repeal i utes without affecting, either in the sense of per mission or of prohibition, the action of the States, or of their citizens.

Still, when the nominal restriction of this naure, already a dead letter in law, was in terms epealed by the last Congress, in a clause of the ct organizing the Territories of Kansas and Nebrasks, that ropeal was made the occasion of a wile-spread and dangerous agitation. It was alteged that the original enactment, be-ing a compact of perpetual moral obligation, its an earl constituted an odious breach of faith.

An act of Congress, while it remains unrepealthe judgment of those public functionaries whose duly it is to pronounce on that point, is un-loubtedly binding on the conscience of each good itizen of the Republic. But in what sense car t be asserted that the enactment in question wa nvested with perjetuity and entitled to the re-poet of a solemn compact? Between whom was he compact? No distinct contending powers of

Of course, these imputations on the intentions of Congress in this respect, conceived as they were in prejudice, and disseminated in passion, are utterly destitute of any justification in the nature of things, and contrary to all the findamental doctrines and principles of civil liberty and self-government.

While, therefore, in general, the people of the Northern States have never, at any time, erro-gated for the federal government the power to interfers directly with the domestic condition of persons in the Southern States; but, on the conrary, have disavowed all such intentions, and trary, have disavowed all such a flooristic, and have shrunk from conspicuous affaitation with those few who pursue their fenatical objects avowedly through the contemplated means of revolutionary change of the government, and with acceptance of the uccessary consequences—a civil and service war—vet many citizens have suffered themselves to be drawn into one evaneact reliting living after another. cent political issue of agitation after another, appertailing to the same set of opinious, and which subsided as rapidly as they arose, when they were incompatible with the compacts of the Constitution and the existence of the Union.

Thus, when the acts of some of the States to nullify the evising extending law in mand ify the existing extradition law imposed upon Congress the duty of passing a new one, the country was invited by agitators to enter into party organisation for its repeal; but that agitaion speedily coased by reason of the impractica bility of its object. So, when the statute restric-tion upon the institutions of new States, by a geographical line, had been repealed, the country was urged to demand its restoration, and that roject also died almost with its hirth. owed the ery of alarm from the North against imputed Southern encroachments; which ery prang in reality from the spirit of revolutionar ttack on the domestic institutions of the South, ad, after a troubled existence of a few months, has been rebuked by the voice of a patrioti

Of this last agitation, one lamentable feature was, that it was carried on at the immediate cxpense of the peace and happiness of the people of the Territory of Kansas. That was made the nattle-field not so much of opposing factions or ntonests within itself, as of the conflicting passions of the whole people of the United States. Revolutionary disorder in Kausas and its origin in projects of intervention, deliberately arranged by cortain members of that Congress which cuctof the law for the organization of the Terri-ory. And when propagandist colonisation of kanasa had thus been undertaken in one section of the Union, for the systematic promotion of it poculiar views of policy, there onsued, as a mat-er of course, a counter action, with opposite views, in other sections of the Union.

In consequence of these and other ineidents any acts of disorder, it is undoniable, have been purputrated in Kansas, to the occasional interrup tion, rather than the permanent suspension, or regular government. Aggressive and most repro ensible incursions into the Territory were under taken, both in the North and the South, and en red it on its northern border by the way of lowa, as well as on the eastern by way of Missouri; and there has existed within it a state of insurrection against the constituted authorities, not without countenance from inconsiderate persons in each of the great sections of the Union.

But the difficulties in that Territory have been But the difficulties in that Territory have been extravagantly exaggerated for the purposes of political agitation elsowhere. The number and gravity of the acts of violence have been magnified parily by statements entirely untrue, and partly by reitorated accounts of the same rumors or facts. Thus the Territory has been seemingly filled with extreme violence, when the whole amount of such acts has not been greater than what eccasionally passes before usin single cities to the regree of all good citizens, but without being regarded as of general or permanent political ig regarded as of general or perma nent political Requence.

imputed irregularities in the elections had in ansas, like occasional irrogularities of the same escription in the States, were beyond the sphere action of the Executive. But incidents of actual violence or of organized obstruction of law, persinaciously renowed from time to time, have seen met as they occurred, by such means as were available and as the circumstances required; and not sing of this character now remains to affect the general pouce of the Union. The attempt of a part of incinhabitants of the Territory to erest a evolutionary government, though sednously enstive agents of disorder in some of the States, he

this Territory will be fennd in the documents of the manufacture of the Service of the Tresury for particular information concerning the financial condition of the Government and the various branches of the public service connected with the Tressury Department.

During the last fixed year the receipts from customs were for the first time more than sixty-four million doltars, and from all sources, seventy-three million nizo hundred and eighteen thouse and one hundred and offerty-one dollars, the seven hundred and fifty thouses and one hundred and fifty thouses and one hundred and fifty thouses sound on hundred and seventeen dollars. The expenditures, including three million one hundred and seventeen dollars. The expenditures, including three million one hundred and seventeen dollars. The expenditures, including three million one hundred and seventeen dollars in expenditures, including three million one hundred and seventeen dollars. The expenditures, including three million one hundred and seventeen dollars. The expenditures, including three million one hundred and seventeen dollars. The expenditures in the subject of the convention between the United States of the United States of the United States. The precision of the treaty will make the present consideration. Herein the service of the expenditure of the public debt, and the countries of the expenditure of the public debt, and the countries of the expenditure of the public debt, and the countries of the expenditure of the public debt, and the countries of the expenditure of the public debt, and the countries of the expenditure of the public debt, and the countries of the expenditure of the public debt, and the countries of the expenditure of the public debt, and the countries of the expenditure of the public debt, and the countries of the expenditure of the ment on this account having amounted to twelve million seven hundred and seventy-six thou-sand three hundred and ninety dollars. On the 4th of March, 1853, the amount of the public debt was sixty-uino million ore hundred and twenty-nine thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven dollars. There was a subsequent ncrease of two million seven hundred and fifty housand dollars for the debt of Texas, making total of soventy-one million eight hundred and seventy-nine thousand nine bundred and thirty-

Of this the sum of forty-five million five hnndred and twenty-five thousand three hundred and nineteen dollars, including premium, has been discharged, reducing the debt to thirty million seven hundred and thirty-seven thousand one hundred and twonty-nine dollars; all which might be paid within a year without embarrassing the public service, but being not yet due, and only redeema-ble at the option of the holder, cannot be pressed o payment by the government.

On examining the expenditures of the last five years, it will be seen that the average, deducting payments on account of public debt and ten millions paid by treaty to Mexico, has been but about forty-eight million dellars. It is believed that, under an economical administration of the Government, the average expenditure for the ensuing five years will not exceed that sum, unless extraordinary occasion for its increase should ceaur. The acts granting bounty lands will soon have seen executed, while the extension of our fron-ier actilements will cause a continued demand for lands and augmented receipts, probably, from that source. These considerations will justify a reduction of the revenue from oustoms, so as not to exceed forty-eight or fifty million dollars. I aink the exigency for such reduction is impera we, and again urge it upon the consideration of

The amount of reduction, as well as the manner of effecting it, are questions of great and general interest; it being essential to industrial enterprise and the public prosperity, as well as the ictate of obvious justice, that the burden of taxation be made to rest as equally as possible upon all classes, and all sections and interests of the

I have heretofore recommended to your conideration the revision of the revenue laws; pre-ared under the direction of the Secretary of the reasury, and also legislation upon some special questions affecting the business of that depart-ment, more especially the ense ment of a law to punish the abstraction of official backs or papers om the files of the government, and requiring all such books and papers and all other public property to be threedover by the ont going offi-cer to his successor; of a law requiring disbursing officers to deposit all public money in the vanits of the Treasnry or in other legal depositories, where the same are conveniently accessible; and a law to extend existing penal provisions to all persons who may become possessed of public money by deposit or otherwise, and who shall re-fuse or neglect, on due demand, to pay the same

The army during the past year has been so onstantly employed against hostile Indians in arious quarters, that it can scarcely besaid, with ropriets of language, to have been a peace es-blishment. Its duties have been satisfactorily erformed, and we have reason to expect, as a esult of the year's operations, greater security othe frontier inhabitants than has been hitherto pi yed. Extensive combinations among the ostile Indians of the Territories of Washington and Oregon at one time threatened the devastation of the newly-formed settlement of that remote peron of the sountry. From recent information, we are permitted to keps that the energetic and suc-cessful operations conducted there will prevent such combinations in future, and secure these torritories an opportunity to make steady progress in the development of their agricultural and other is now in the way of satisfactory adjustment.

The object of the convention between the United States and Great Britain of the 19th of April, 1850, was to secure, for the benefit of all nations, the nentrality and the common nse of any transit way, or interoceanic communication, across the latinus of Panama, which maght be opened within the limits of Central America. The protensions subsequently asserted by Great Britain, to dominion or control over territories, in or near two of the routes, those o. Nicaragua and Hondurs, were deemed by the United States not merely incompatible with the main object of the treaty, but opposed even to its express stipulations. Occasion of controversy on this point has been removed by an additional treaty, which our minister at London has concluded, and which will be immediately submitted to the Henate for its consideration. Should the proposed supplemental arrangement be concurred in by all the parties to be affected by it, the objects contemplated by the original convention will have been fully attained.

The treaty between the United States and Great Briath, of the 5th of June, 1854, which went into effective operation in 1856, put an end to causes of irritation between the two countries, by securing te the United States the right of fishery on the coast of the British North American provinces, with advantages equal to those enjoyed by British subjects. Besides the skinal benefits of this treaty to a large class of our citizens engaged in a pursuit connected to no inconsiderable degree with our national properity and strength; it has had a favorable effect upon other interests in the provision it made for reciprocal freedom of trade between the United States and the British provinces in America.

The improved endition of this branch of our emmerceding year by nearly seven millions of dotlars; and the imports therefrom, curing the same period, amounted to more than twenty-one millions—an increase of six millions upon those of the previous year.

The improved endition of t

Provision was made, in the first article of that treaty, Provision was made, in the first article of that treaty, for a commission to designate the months of rivers to which the common right of fishery on the coast of the United states and the British Provinces, was not to extend. This commission has been employed a part of two seasons, but without much progress in accomplishing the object for which it was instituted, in consequence of a serious difference of opinion between the commissioners, not only as to the precise point where the rivers terminate, but in many instances as to what constitutes a river. These difficulties, now-ever, may be overcome by resort to the unpriage provided for by the treaty. The efforts perseveringly prosecuted since the commencement of my administration, to relieve our trade to the Battle from the exaction of sound date by Denmark, have not yet been attended with success. Other governments have also sought to obtain a fixe relief to their commerce, and Denmark was thus induced to propose an arrangement to all the European Powers givernments have also sought to obtain a like relief to their commerce, and Denmark was thus indused to propose an arrangement to all the European Powers interested in the surject; and the manuer in which her proposition was received, warranting her to believe that a satisfactory arrangement with them could soon so concluded, she made a strong appear to this government for temporary suspension of definite action on its part, in consideration of the embarrassment which might result to her European negotiations by an immediate adjustment of the question with the United States.

This request has been acceded to, upon the condition that the sums collected after the 1sin of June last, and until the 16th of June next, from vessels and earlies that the sums collected after the 1sin of June last, and until the 16th of June next, from vessels and earlies to the tendence of the condition of the condition that the sums collected are paid under protest and surject to future adjustment. There is reason to believe that an arrangement between benmark and the maritime powers of Europe on the subject will soon be concluded, and that the pending negotiation with the United States may then be resumed and terminated in a satisfactory manner. With Spain no new difficulties have arisin, nor has much progress been mate in the adjustment of pending ones.

Negotiations entered into for the purpose of reliev

Agotations entered into for the purpose of relieving our commercial intercourse with the Island of Cubs of some of its turdens, and providing for the more speedly settlement of local disputes growing out of that intercourse, have not yet been attempted with any results.

Soon after the commencement of the late war in Europe, this government submitted to the consideration of all mantime nations, two principles for the security of neutral commerce, one, inst the neutral flag should cover enemies' goods, except articles contraband of war; and the other, that neutral property on board merchant vessels of belligerents should be exemptively on commenced in the strength of the property of the security of international law; having been generally claimed by neutrals, though not always admitted by belligerents, one of the paries to the warr-Russia—as well as arveral neutral powers, promptly acceded to these propositions; and inctwo other principal belligerents, Great Britain and France, having consented to observe them for this present occasion, a lavorable opportunity seemel to be presented for obtaining a general recognition of them both in Europe and America.

But Great Britain and France, in common with most of the states of Europe, while forbaaring to reject, did not affirmatively act upon the overtures of the United States.

not affirmatively act upon the overtures of the United States.

While the question was in this position the representatives of Russia, France, Great Britain, Austria, Prussia, Sardinia, and Turkey, assembled at Paris, too and out consideration the subject of maritime thats, and put forth a deel-ration containing the two principles which this government had submitted, nearly two years before, to the consideration of mar time powers, and adding thereto the following propositions: "Prevateering is and remains anolisined," and "Block ades, in order to be binding, must be effective—that is to say, maintained by a force sufficient really to prevent access to the coast of the cheen;" and to declaration thus composed of four points, two of which had arrea y oven propus d by the United States, this government has been invited to accede by all the powers represented at Paris, except Great Britain and Turkey.

The the last of the two additional propositions—that
